Ralph Nader is a consumer advocate, lawyer, author, and has been named by Time Magazine as one of the 100 Most Influential Americans in the Twentieth Century. He has helped improve the quality of life for two generations of Americans.

He was instrumental in enacting: mandatory seatbelts and air bags in cars, nutrition facts on food, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), The Consumer Product Safety Commission, and the Safe Drinking Water Act. Nader helped create the Wholesome Meat Act, National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act, Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), Public Interest Research Groups (PIRGs), Public Citizen, the Disability Rights Center, and the Pension Rights Center.

Because of Ralph Nader we drive safer cars, eat healthier food, breathe better air, drink cleaner water, and work in safer environments. He continues to work to ensure that the products and services that consumers use are safe.

In 2000 Matt Gonzalez was elected to the 11-member San Francisco Board of Supervisors, where he fought to create a minimum wage that includes a mechanism for yearly cost of living adjustments. Considered the highest in the country, currently the wage is $9.36 per hour.

He led the effort to implement Instant Run-off Voting in San Francisco, where it has successfully obtained a majority outcome without the need for costly run-off elections.

In 2003, as the sole Green Party member, Gonzalez was elected president of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors representing a district of 80,000. Since leaving office, Gonzalez has been practicing law in San Francisco focused mostly on defending civil rights.
